

Blog Not Blog

29th April 2021

Hello everyone,

The weather is still conspiring against us, a Bank Holiday weekend approaches, the sun has gone, the cold wind is still here and the odd shower – although the garden does need it. Still sitting out in the garden for another couple of weeks or so.

In between cleaning and gardening, we did find time Monday for a drive into Wales to visit St. Issui's Church at Patricio and Llanthony Priory and some lovely scenery as well.

Curries:

This week I have

- Mixed Vegetable Korma – a subtle, aromatic curry.
- Lamb Balti – tender slow-cooked lamb marinated in my own blend of spices for 24hrs.
- Chicken Tikka Masala – a traditional char-grilled chicken in a creamy mix of garlic, ginger and spices.

Our current menu is at www.themonklandarms.co.uk and is available either to eat in the garden or as a takeaway whenever the kitchen is open.

If we don't see you, have a lovely weekend.

As ever, keep well and safe.

Jed
